

(b) General Insurers' (Public Sector) Association of India (GIPSA) has reported that public sector companies are neither going slow nor denying health cover to people over 55 years. However, in view of high claim ratio in the age group of 55 years and above, the commission payable to agents has been reduced by one public sector company as a measure to reduce the total outgo. Insurers have also been advised by Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority (IRDA) to ensure that servicing of existing policy holders is not affected in any manner by a change in the commission structure.

(c) and (d) Yes, Sir. The premium under the existing Mediclaim policy for persons above 55 years of age is higher by 60% or more as compared to premium for persons below 35 years. Under Mediclaim policy, people above 45 years of age have to undergo health check-up before acceptance of the proposal. Renewal of policy (without break) upto the age of 80 years is accepted without any health check-up. Insurers have also started devising specific health insurance covers for senior citizens. One such cover has been launched recently by the National Insurance Company Limited for persons above the age of 60 years.
